VERY LATE FROM SPAIN.

By an arrival at Boston, news from Malaga to October 10, informs that 6,000 of the Carlist army were within one day's march of that City, and that the greatest consternation pervaded all ranks. The shipping in the harbor was crowded with men, women and children, for protection. Every preparation was made for their reception, and about 5,000 militia assembled, but they had no leader in whom to confide.

Signor Gorostiza, the Mexican Minister, has embarked for home, with all tho legation. Previous to his departure, he addressed a note to our government, in which he says: "Unhappily the result has not been what the undersigned expected. The vote of Mr. Dickins has left him no hope. The explanations, the name of the President, have shown how little can be looked for, by Mexico, from the United States, since her most sacred rights, her most important interests, are thus sacrificed, to the shadow of an imaginary danger. Mexico is wronged and insulted, as a measure of precaution. Under such painful circumstances, the undersigned would be wanting in his duty, as the representatives of Mexicoif he did not avail himself of the only feels, at the wrongs dono his country. On his own responsibility, therefore, he terminated."

A great fire occurred at Constantinople, near the beginning of September. The whole section of the city called Sultan Bugazid, in the centre of the town, was eestroyed. Many magazines full of goods were destroyed, and the loss was estimated at two and a half millions of piasters. One half of the town of Larissa was destroyed by fire on the 2d of September. Larissa is situated about 300 miles W. S. W. from Constantinople, and contains about 25,000 inhabitants.

MR. VAN BUREN.

As Mr. Van Buren is certainly to be next President of the United States, we worst his enemies, the Whigs, have been that they may hear both sides. With this view, we give the following extracts from the papers quoted:

GEORGIA.

No reasonable doubt can be entertained of the success of the Van Buren ticket in Georgia. Our opinion is formed upon the success of the Union party, under peculiar disadvantages, in the late State election, and the reasoning contained in the following paragraphs from two of the ablest of the Republican papers in the State:

The elections are now over, and from the returns received, we can safely say, that our whole Congressional ticket has succeeded by a majority of from five hundred to a thousand votes, with the exception of Colonel Dawson, who, probably will succeed General Coffee, whose death is the principal cause that he did not receive the same vote the others did. Gen. Glascock, it will be observed, has obtained nn overwhelming vote, having been supported by both parties; but we are nesured his political principles are un changed, and unchangeable; that he is still the devoted friend of Gen. Jackson and the warm supporter of his administration, and will vote the Van Buren electoral ticket .- Constitutionalist.

From the aggrevate given, and our knowledge of the strength of the remain, ing counties, we are satisfied that the vote will fall very far short of that polled in method left him, to express the pain he eighteen hundred and thirty-five, and and had sent troops to its assistance. THE RAIL ROAD.

We are gratified to be able to state, that on the closing of the Books on Saturday afternoon, it appeared that upwards of one MILLION THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS had been subscribed by the citizens of Charleston, to the Louisville, Cincinnati and Charleston Rail Road. The precise amount could not be ascertained, but it certainly exceeds somewhat the amount above stated, and under a Resolution of the City Council on Saturday, this amount will be increased to one MILLION AND A HALF, the Council having, in accordance with the general sentiment, determined to make up that amount, whatever might be the state of the subscription at the closing of the Books. LATEST FROM MATAMORAS. -We are indebted to Captain Turner of the schooner, Mary Hooper, arrived yesterday morning from Matamoras, which port she left the 27th August, for the following late and important information. General Urrea, commandant of the Mexican forces in Texas, issued a strong proclamation on the 20th of August at Matamoras, against the Texians and Americans, which was caused by a report there, that the United States' government had acknowledged the independence of Texas, crossed the Sabine, gave strength to the report, and the Americans at M. were treated with much indignity. About the 25th of August, information was received by General Urrea, of the true purport of General Gaines' visit with his troops to Nacogdoches, when every exertion was made to call in and destroy the proclamations, but they had got so wide a circulation that very few had been recovered when Captain Turner left. The Mexican army at Matamoras consisted of about 3,500 effective men, 4 to 600 having deserted and were prowling in tho words, in the vicinity, and were daily committing depredations on the inhabitants and foreigners. The Texian Commissioners Teal and Cairners remained in close confinement when the Mary

Hooper sailed. About the 22d of August, a Mexican officer, in council, proposed the sacking of the town of Matamoras, but although supported by many of the council, they were out voted-the inhabitants were in the daily expectation of some outbreak of the Mexican s ldiers who were under very little restraint; a forced loan had also been passed by the council of Mexiean officers, but had not yet gone into offeet .- Mercantile.

Journey nuder water .-- The extraordinary feat of walking under the water for the distance of a mile was performed at Weymouth on Monday, Oct. 3d, by Mr. Joseph Orchard, the celebrated diver, who completed this unparalleled undertaking in the harbor, walking at the bottom of it from the new pier the whole length and then making his appearance by landing at its extremity, hearing a powter tankard, which he met with in his progress. He afterwards dived again, walked under the water across a portion of the bay, and landed at the stairs opposite Luce's Hotel, amidst the cheers of an immense crowd who had accompained and watched his submarine excursion. A boat, having an air-pump and necessary apparatus for supplying Mr. Orchard with fresh air, attended him. Bath Chronicle.

These differences are ascribed by the inventors principally to the different degrees in which the substances had their elasticity reduced by an increase of temperature. As glass was thus found to suffer a much smaller loss of elasticity by this cause than metals, they proceeded to construct a glass halance, saited to the correction of the small error still occasioned by this cause, employing a glass dise for this purpose. The computation being completed, they next lested the isocranism (uniformity of movement) of the glass spring, and it proved to be as perfect as any metalic spring. In common with all other instruments of the same kind, they, have shown a disposition to progressive accelleration-the cause of which is but little known, but which appears to be influenced by the action of
